2004 ANNUAL REPORT

THE BEST WE HAVE WITHIN US

Something good is happening here. Something very good.

The epiphany came after a yearlong observance of the centennial of the founding of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission in 1904. It is not a profound conclusion, and, in fact, I had been operating under that very assumption over the course of my decade-long association with the Commission. And why wouldn't it be good? The Hero Fund recognizes those who voluntarily face great risks to save the lives of others. For 100 years we have awarded medals to heroes and helped to carry part of any financial burden that resulted from the heroes' actions.

What was unique this year was the chance to see firsthand how the spirit of the Hero Fund lives among the heroes, their families, and even those who were rescued. It was as enlightening as it was touching. The year's signature event was a fall gathering in Pittsburgh that included medal awardees and family members of awardees now deceased. For many, it was an opportunity to share with those of like experience. For others, it was the offer of reaffirmation of the goodness they had exhibited, perhaps long ago.

For those who sit on the foundation's board and conduct its affairs, the evening was a chance to meet the living heroes whose stories we had read and admired. This encounter gave us the impetus and the means to hone our approach so that the recognition we offer can be more directed, more effective. The experience convinced us to expand our scope to allow for a greater telling of the stories of our heroes as real-life illustrations of the best we have within us as human beings.

"We celebrate heroes because we need them," historian David McCullough told the gathering. "A nation without heroes would be a nation

SCALE HAS A LOT TO DO WITH BEING HEROIC. IT'S BECAUSE GOLIATH WAS SO BIG THAT DAVID WAS SO HEROIC. IT WAS BECAUSE THE OCEAN IS SO ENORMOUS THAT LINDBERGH'S FLIGHT WAS SO HEROIC. IT IS THE JUXTAPOSITION OF HUMAN SCALE AGAINST OTHER KINDS OF ODDS WHICH SEEMS TO PUT THE HUMAN DIMENSION IN THE MINISCULE. IT'S WHEN HUMAN DIMENSION RISES TO BE EQUAL TO THE SCALE OF THE CHALLENGE THAT OUR HEARTS GO OUT TO HEROES, AND WE ARE INFLUENCED BY THEM. —David McCullough

in very deep trouble. But we must make no mistake about what a hero is. A hero is not a celebrity—the term is misused constantly. A hero does what he or she does at great risk.”

McCullough, who has been called this nation's “historian laureate,” was right, precisely. Heroes make a choice that is moral—for the well-being of others—and often mortal, because it may cost them their lives. We believe, as did Carnegie 100 years ago, that “civilization's heroes” need to be set apart for the good they have done. “It's the heart that is moved by the person in distress,” McCullough said. “But it's also the heart that is moved in a civilization that values the individual, that values life.”

We believe also that heroes by their deeds provide inspiration. Not all of us will be confronted by extraordinary danger that, threatening another, requires a split-second decision to act, though the following pages of this report testify to the thousands who have made that decision. But all of us in everyday living regularly encounter situations that test our mettle, opportunities that challenge our complacency. McCullough quoted a letter from Abigail Adams to her son, then 10-year-old John Quincy Adams, who would be the sixth president of the United States: It is not in the still calm of life, or the repose of a pacific station, that great characters are formed. The habits of a vigorous mind are found in contending with difficulties. Great necessities call out great virtues. When a mind is raised, and animated by scenes that engage the heart, then those qualities which would otherwise lay dormant wake into life and form the character of the hero and the statesman.

CARNEGIE'S HEROES OF CIVILIZATION

The Carnegie Hero Fund Commission is rooted in the enduring strength of an idea espoused by Andrew Carnegie, that those who respond selflessly when faced by a fellow human in mortal danger are to be set apart. Carnegie called them heroes, and he made provision for them to receive medals and recompense for their deeds, just as warriors were decorated for their conquests. As a pacifist, he maintained a strong distinction between the two types of heroes: In his words, heroes of a civilization preserve or rescue others while those of barbarism maim or kill them.

Establishing the Hero Fund on April 15, 1904, with an endowment of $5 million and the appointment of 21 Pittsburghers to oversee it, the Scottish-born steelmaker formed an institution of which he came to be justly proud. He called it the pet of his philanthropic enterprises "because no one ever suggested it." It was his "ain bairn," his child.

The two-fold goal of the Commission remains today that which was conceived a century ago: To recognize persons throughout the United States and Canada who perform acts of heroism in civilian life and to aid those who suffer pecuniary loss as the result of their heroic deeds. That the goal is unchanged over 100 years, despite massive upheaval in the social and world order, is testament to Carnegie's foresight.

"We live in a heroic age," Carnegie wrote in the founding Deed of Trust. "Not seldom are we thrilled by deeds of heroism where men or women are injured or lose their lives in attempting to preserve or rescue their fellows." Similar thinking first surfaced in 1886, when Carnegie was informed that a youth in his native Dunfermline had drowned in a rescue attempt: "The false heroes of barbarous man are those who can only boast of the destruction of their fellows," he wrote. The true heroes of civilization are those alone who save or greatly serve them."

The words are as timely today as they were in the late 19th century. The Commission has found that in the bleakest hours of disaster, natural or man-made, broad in scale or intimate, civilized society will have its desperate cries for help met with urgency and compassion, and often by a stranger.

It was of disaster that the Commission was born: a massive coal-mine explosion, claiming 181 lives, on January 25, 1904, in Harwick, a tiny community along the Allegheny River just north of Pittsburgh. Within a few weeks, Carnegie instructed that gold medals be issued to commemorate the self-sacrifice of two men who were performing rescue activity, then he reviewed the financial circumstances of their widows and children to provide aid. His penciled note survives: "I can't get those widows and children of the mine out of my head." Two months later came the first draft of the Deed of Trust, which extended similar considerations to those who perform heroic acts throughout the United States and Canada.

The administration of Carnegie's "hero fund" was given to the self-perpetuating commission, then as now based in Pittsburgh. The Fund's working definition of a hero as well as its requirements for awarding remain largely those that were approved by the founder, who maintained an active interest in this novel work of his over the 15 years preceding his death. The candidate for an award must be a civilian who voluntarily risks his or her life to an extraordinary degree while saving or attempting to save the life of another person. The rescuer must have no full measure of responsibility for the safety of the victim. There must be conclusive evidence to support the act's occurrence.

Those who are selected for recognition by the Commission are awarded the Carnegie Medal and a financial grant of $3,500. Through 2004, medals numbering 8,869 have been given, the recipients selected from more than 78,000 nominees. The heroic deed was the last act performed in the lives of 1,875 of the awardees.

Financial benefits provided by the Fund include supplemental continuing grants for rescuers who sustain disabling injuries in the performance of their heroic acts and for the dependents of awardees who die as the result of their actions. Other benefits include assistance with the funeral costs of the posthumous awardees and scholarship aid, the latter available to awardees seeking to enhance their vocational capabilities and to the dependents of disabled and posthumous awardees seeking to do the same. More than $27.4 million has been given to the awardees and their survivors over the life of the Fund.

The Commission announces awards five times a year, following scheduled meetings of its Executive Committee, which is the Fund's awarding body. All members of the Commission serve in an honorary capacity. A staff of nine professional employees investigates the cases of heroism brought to the Commission's attention and provides administrative support.

The early success of the Hero Fund prompted Carnegie's establishment of 10 similar funds in western Europe, beginning with the Carnegie Hero Fund Trust for the United Kingdom in 1908, and followed by the Fondation Carnegie, France, 1909; Carnegie Heltefond for Norge, Norway, 1911; Fondation Carnegie pour les Sauveteurs, Switzerland, 1911; Stichting Carnegie Heldenfonds, The Netherlands, 1911; Carnegiestiftelsen, Sweden, 1911; Carnegies Belønningsfond for Heltemod, Denmark, 1911; Fondation Carnegie, Belgium, 1911; Fondazione Carnegie, Italy, 1911, and Carnegie-Stiftung für Lebensretter, Germany, 1911 (now defunct).

RESOLUTION MARKING THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY
OF THE CARNEGIE HERO FUND COMMISSION

WHEREAS, this meeting of the Executive Committee of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission falls on the 100th anniversary of the date of the founding of the Commission, and

WHEREAS, the Executive Committee wishes to mark the occasion with both the acknowledgement of the Commission's rich heritage and the commitment of its present and future endeavor to the worthy intent of its founder, Andrew Carnegie, now therefore be it

RESOLVED, that we herewith recognize in the establishment of the Fund Mr. Carnegie's beneficence as exemplary of his high standard on the responsible stewardship of personal wealth and his desire to foster the ideals of peace-loving societies, where the spirit of self sacrifice is held exalted, and

RESOLVED, that we acknowledge with gratitude the time and talents, freely given, of our eighty-four forebears and especially of those who served in the office of President of this Commission, namely, Charles L. Taylor, W. J. Holland, Thomas S. Arbuthnot, Charles A. McClintock, Stewart McClintic, and Robert W. Off, and

RESOLVED, that we heartily endorse as relevant and appropriate the Commission's mission, that those who respond, selflessly in the extreme, to the aid of others are to be set apart, and that they and their dependents be provided for should their deeds reap penury, and finally

RESOLVED, that our endeavors in the administration of this trust be guided by no less than the core values of good and decent peoples insofar as they include integrity, honesty, fairness, openness, respect, and responsibility.

DEED OF TRUST

TO THE HERO FUND COMMISSION

GENTLEMEN: We live in a heroic age. Not seldom are we thrilled by deeds of heroism where men or women are injured or lose their lives in attempting to preserve or rescue their fellows; such the heroes of civilization. The heroes of barbarism maimed or killed theirs.

I have long felt that the heroes and those dependent upon them should be freed from pecuniary cares resulting from their heroism, and, as a fund for this purpose, I have transferred to the Commission five million dollars of First Collateral Five Per Cent. Bonds of the United States Steel Corporation, the proceeds to be used as follows:

FIRST. To place those following peaceful vocations, who have been injured in heroic effort to save human life, in somewhat better positions pecuniarily than before, until again able to work. In the case of death, the widow and children, or other dependents, to be provided for until she remarries, and the children until they reach a self-supporting age. For exceptional children exceptional grants may be made for exceptional education. Grants of sums of money may also be made to heroes or heroines as the Commission thinks advisable—each case to be judged on its merits.

SECOND. No grant is to be continued unless it be soberly and properly used, and the recipients remain respectable, well-behaved members of the community, but the heroes and heroines are to be given a fair trial, no matter what their antecedents. Heroes deserve pardon and a fresh start.

THIRD. A medal shall be given to the hero, or widow, or next of kin, which shall recite the heroic deed it commemorates, that descendants may know and be proud of their descent. The medal shall be given for the heroic act, even if the doer be uninjured, and also a sum of money, should the Commission deem such gift desirable.

FOURTH. Many cities provide pensions for policemen, firemen, teachers, and others, and some may give rewards for acts of heroism. All these and other facts the Commission will take into account and act accordingly in making grants. Nothing could be further from my intention than to deaden or interfere with these most creditable provisions, doubly precious as showing public and municipal appreciation of faithful and heroic service. I ask from the Commission most careful guard against this danger. The medal can, of course, be offered in such cases. Whether something more can not judiciously be done, at the request of, or with the approval of, the city authorities, the Commission shall determine. I hope there can be.

FIFTH. The claims upon the Fund for some years can not exhaust it. After years, however, pensioners will become numerous. Should the Commission find, after allowing liberally for this, that a surplus will remain, it has power to make grants in case of accidents (preferably where a hero has appeared) to those injured. The action taken in the recent Harwick Mine accident, where Heroes Taylor and Lyle lost their lives, is an illustration. The community first raised a fund of forty thousand dollars, which was duplicated by me after waiting until the generosity of the community had full scope. Here again the Commission should be exceedingly careful, as in this case, not to deaden, but to stimulate employers or communities to do their part, for such action benefits givers themselves as well as recipients.

SIXTH. It seems probable that cities and employers on this continent will ultimately be placed under similar conditions to those of Britain, Germany, and other European States, and required to provide against accidents to employees. Therefore, the Commission, by a two-thirds vote, may devote any surplus that accrues beyond providing for heroes and their dependents (which provision must never be abandoned) to such other modes of benefiting those in want, chiefly caused through no fault of their own (such as drunkenness, laziness, crimes, etc.) but through exceptional circumstances, in such manner and to such extent as the Commission thinks advisable and likely to do more good than if such sums were given to those injured by accident, where the latter may be suitably provided for by law, or otherwise.

SEVENTH. The field embraced by the Fund is the United States of America, the Dominion of Canada, the Colony of Newfoundland, and the waters thereof. The sea is the scene of many heroic acts. No action more heroic than that of doctors and nurses volunteering their services in the case of epidemics. Railroad employees are remarkable for heroism. All these and similar cases are embraced. Whenever heroism is displayed by man or woman in saving human life, the Fund applies.

EIGHTH. No personal liability will attach to members for any act of the Commission. The Commission has power to fill vacancies.

NINTH. The Commission has full power to sell, invest, or reinvest all funds; to employ all officials, including Secretary, traveling agents to visit and oversee beneficiaries, etc. and to fix their compensation. Members of the Commission shall be reimbursed all expenses incurred, including traveling expenses attending meetings. The President shall be granted such honoraria as the Commission thinks proper and as he can be prevailed upon to accept.

TENTH. An annual report, including a detailed statement of sums and medals granted and the reasons therefor, shall be made each year and published in at least one newspaper in the principal cities of the countries embraced by the Fund. A finely executed roll of the heroes and heroines shall be kept displayed in the office at Pittsburgh.

WITNESS, LOUISE WHITFIELD CARNEGIE

THE CARNEGIE MEDAL

The Carnegie Medal is awarded to one who, at the risk of his or her own life, saves or attempts to save the life of another person.

Mr. Carnegie's embossed profile dominates the front of the medal. On the reverse side in low relief is the geographical outline of the United States and Canada, the countries to which the Fund applies. In higher relief the seals of these countries are shown, with that of the United States below the inscription plate, and that of Canada above it.

Relief work surrounding the inscription plate reveals a sprig of laurel typifying glory, and above are sprigs of ivy, oak, and thistle, for friendship, strength, and persistence. Encircling the relief work is a quotation from the New Testament (John 15:13): "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

REQUIREMENTS FOR A CARNEGIE MEDAL

- There must be conclusive evidence that the person performing the act voluntarily risked his or her own life to an extraordinary degree in saving or attempting to save the life of another person, or voluntarily sacrificed himself or herself in a heroic manner for the benefit of others.
- The act of rescue must be one in which no full measure of responsibility exists between the rescuer and the rescued.
- The act must have been performed in the United States, Canada, or the waters thereof and must be brought to the attention of the Commission within two years of the date of rescue.
- Persons not eligible for awards are: those whose duties in following their regular vocations require them to perform such acts, unless the rescues are clearly beyond the line of duty; members of the armed services; children considered by the Commission to be too young to comprehend the risks involved; and members of the same family, except in cases of outstanding heroism where the rescuer loses his or her life or is severely injured.

AWARDS

- A medal is presented to the person performing the act or, in case of death, to the widow, widower, or the next of kin.
- When a rescuer loses his or her life in the performance of an act, contributions may be made toward the livelihood of the dependents. If the rescuer is disabled in the performance of the act, periodic contributions may be made to his or her livelihood. If the rescuer is not injured, a monetary grant may nevertheless be made, should the Commission deem such gift desirable. Awardees and the dependents of posthumous and disabled awardees are eligible for scholarship assistance.
- The benefits to be paid and the manner of payment are determined by the Commission after consideration of the circumstances of each awardee. Continuing benefits are paid only if there is clear need for such assistance and only if such benefits are soberly and properly used and the recipients remain respectable members of their communities.

HEROIC ACTS RECOGNIZED DURING 2004

The following persons were cited by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission in 2004 for having performed outstanding acts of heroism. In each case, a Carnegie Medal and a financial grant of $3,500 were awarded.

JIMMIE MICHAEL ACREMAN

Lake Wales, Florida

Jimmie Michael Acreman helped to rescue Alex D. McKay from burning, Lake Wales, Florida, November 15, 2002. Badly burned, McKay, 84, was trapped on the side porch of his house after a gas explosion in the house at night that set it fully aflame. The roof was blown off the house, and a section of it lay against the porch, blocking access from the outside. At work nearby, Acreman, 53, mechanic, heard the explosion and, responding to the scene, learned that McKay was trapped in the burning structure. Acreman scaled the roof debris, then jumped through an opening in it to the floor of the porch. With his cap, he extinguished flames on McKay, then stood him up and hoisted him through the debris to the hands of other rescuers, who took him to safety. Acreman then climbed from the porch and through the roof debris and descended to the ground. The house was destroyed in the explosion and fire. McKay was hospitalized for treatment of extensive and severe burns, and he died of them the following day. Acreman sustained minor burns on his hands, from which he recovered. 76560-8768

PAUL J. ARCHAMBAULT

Corona, California

Paul J. Archambault helped to save Sigrid Szymczak-Hopson from burning, Azusa, California, September 1, 2002. Ms. Szymczak-Hopson, 70, was at her cabin in the San Gabriel Canyon of the Angeles National Forest when a forest fire broke out about three miles away and began to advance in that direction. Authorities evacuated the canyon of its residents and visitors, but Ms. Szymczak-Hopson was reluctant to leave. The sheriff's department learned that she remained in the path of the fire, and two of its deputies, including Archambault, 43, elected to respond. Archambault driving, the men took a sport utility vehicle on the only road into the canyon, defying both a roadblock that had been established by firefighters and warnings that the road was impassable. The first part of their 8.5-mile route was through an area over which the fire had already passed but where hot spots remained, flames flaring then receding on either side and debris littering the roadway. About a half-mile from the cabin, the road narrowed to one lane, with a 300-foot drop to the side. Flame conditions were more severe there, and dense smoke reduced visibility to only a few feet. Archambault pulled the vehicle into a parking lot near the cabin and kept it moving to avoid engine failure as his partner ran 650 feet to the cabin, where he found Ms. Szymczak-Hopson. After the partner returned to the vehicle with her, Archambault pulled back onto the roadway, where conditions were deteriorating: Visibility was further limited and intense heat made its way into the vehicle. They navigated the narrow portion of the roadway, then continued toward safety until one of the vehicle's tires flattened, about four miles from the roadblock. Another flattened shortly after, and the rest of the vehicle showed extensive fire- and debris-related damage. Firefighters responded shortly and took them to safety; neither Ms. Szymczak-Hopson nor Archambault and his partner was injured. The fire burned for 13 days over more than 20,000 acres before it was contained. 76982-8784

DOROTHY P. BARNES

Westfield, Massachusetts

Dorothy P. Barnes helped to rescue Helena G. Couto from an attacking alligator, Englewood, Florida, February 23, 2003. Ms. Couto, 72, was trimming a bush adjacent to a small pond on the premises of the condominium complex where she resided. Unseen by her, a 100-pound alligator approached and grasped her by the right forearm. Holding onto the bush with her left hand, Ms. Couto struggled against the alligator as it started to drag her toward the pond. She shouted for help, attracting the attention of a friend and neighbor, Ms. Barnes, 72, retired insurance agency employee, who was walking nearby. Ms. Barnes ran to the scene, where she grabbed Ms. Couto by the ankles and pulled, and she too screamed for help. Twisting and rolling, the alligator pulled at Ms. Couto's arm, partially severing it, as Ms. Barnes kept Ms. Couto from being dragged into the pond. Another resident of the complex arrived, and he used bush cuttings against the alligator to thwart the attack. Having severed Ms. Couto's arm at the elbow, the alligator retreated to the pond. Ms. Couto was taken to the hospital, where she was detained for five days; reattachment of the arm, which was retrieved after the alligator was shot, was not successful. 76736-8781

DAVID D. BARTAWAY

Trenton, Michigan

David D. Bartaway attempted to save an indeterminate number of persons from being struck by a pickup truck, Trenton, Michigan, July 12, 2003. More than 100 people were attending an arts and crafts festival on a block-long section of a street that was closed to vehicular traffic, when a disoriented man drove a pickup truck past the barricades and continued down the street. Standing nearby, Bartaway, 42, letter carrier, saw the pickup approach, its speed about 10 m.p.h. Bartaway immediately ran about 75 feet to the driver's side of the pickup and yelled at the driver to stop, but the driver ignored him.

Running alongside the vehicle, Bartaway tried to open the door, but it was locked. He then grasped the outside mirror and pulled himself up to and head first partially through the opened driver's window. His legs extending out of the truck as it continued on the street, Bartaway attempted to remove the vehicle's ignition key and gain control of the steering wheel, but the driver resisted him by striking him repeatedly. After the pickup had traveled about 120 feet with him aboard, Bartaway pushed himself out the window. He fell to the pavement, landing face down. The pickup continued to an intersecting street, where it struck a delivery truck and came to a stop. Police officers at the festival arrested the driver. Bartaway was treated at the hospital for a broken nose, broken bones in one hand, and multiple cuts and bruises. He missed seven weeks' work and required physical therapy and pain management treatment. 77298-8869

ROBERT K. BARTH

Pardeeville, Wisconsin

Robert K. Barth helped to save Melissa M. Bauer from burning, Cambria, Wisconsin, August 25, 2003. Ms. Bauer, 26, was the driver of a car that, in a highway accident, was knocked off the roadway and into a farmyard. She was trapped in the wreckage, from which flames issued in the engine area. Barth, 43, carpenter, and a friend drove upon the scene and stopped. Barth attempted to gain entry to the vehicle on its driver's side but was unsuccessful. He then entered the back-seat area of the car from its passenger side and pulled on the driver's seat to free Ms. Bauer while his friend entered the front-seat area and did the same. Flames entering the car through its broken-out windshield ignited the dashboard and ceiling. After Barth managed to pull the seat back, his friend worked to free Ms. Bauer's legs, which remained trapped underneath the dashboard. The men then maneuvered Ms. Bauer into the back seat and removed her from the car. Ms. Bauer required hospital treatment for injuries received during the collision, but she was not burned. Barth strained back muscles during the rescue, and he recovered. 77386-8863

WANDA M. BLACKBURN

Red Bluff, California

Wanda M. Blackburn saved Peggy Henry from burning, Red Bluff, California, March 26, 2003. Ms. Henry, 90, was in the master bedroom at one end of her mobile home after fire broke out in the nearby bathroom. Flames grew and broke through the structure in that end. In her home across the street, Ms. Blackburn, 42, data entry clerk, was alerted to the fire. Barefoot, she immediately responded to the scene, where she entered the home's front door to dense smoke and intense heat inside. She ran to the master bedroom, which was aflame, and found Ms. Henry sitting on the bed. She picked Ms. Henry up and returned to the front door with her, flames spreading quickly to engulf and destroy the structure. Neither woman was injured. 76785-8786

ERIC C. BONNELL

Italy Cross, Nova Scotia

Eric C. Bonnell saved Marguerite Naugler from burning, Italy Cross, Nova Scotia, May 6, 2003. Ms. Naugler, 83, was in the first-floor bedroom of her two-story, wood-frame house after fire broke out in the chimney and spread to the kitchen, living room, and second floor. Her neighbor, Bonnell, 58, retired quality specialist, saw smoke issuing from the house and immediately responded. He entered the enclosed back porch, calling Ms. Naugler by name, then opened the door to the kitchen. Despite flames in that room and the adjoining living room, and hearing their roar in the second story, Bonnell crouched beneath the dense smoke and made his way through the kitchen to the bedroom, which opened off the kitchen. Finding Ms. Naugler standing in the bedroom doorway, Bonnell put his arms around her and took her to the kitchen door. As they exited the house, part of the kitchen ceiling collapsed. Flames destroyed the structure. Ms. Naugler suffered minor smoke inhalation from which she recovered. Bonnell sustained minor burns to his hands, and he too recovered. 76906-8826

DAVID BRYAN BOWERY

Kingsport, Tennessee

David Bryan Bowery saved Juliann B. Farmer from drowning, Kingsport, Tennessee, July 5, 2003. Juliann, 2, fell into the Holston River and was carried 600 feet downstream by the very swift current. As she approached, she was spotted by people on the deck of a riverside restaurant, including Bowery, 32, financial advisor. Bowery immediately jumped from the deck, ran to the river, and, stepping onto a submerged rock, leapt into the water. He swam toward the middle of the river and intercepted Juliann at a point about 25 feet out. Grasping her and pulling her to him, Bowery returned toward the bank, the current taking them farther downstream. He reached the bank with Juliann, handed her over to a paramedic who was present, then left the water. Juliann was hospitalized three days for treatment of water in her lungs, and she recovered. Bowery sustained scrapes to his arms and legs and other minor effect but he recovered shortly. 77008-8787

KENYON D. BRINDLEY

Conway, Arkansas

Kenyon D. Brindley died after helping in an attempt to save a boy and his father from drowning, Grayton Beach, Florida, June 9, 2003. A 12-year-old boy and his boogie board were taken seaward by rough water conditions in the Gulf of Mexico, and his father, 60, experienced difficulty during a rescue attempt. Nearby on the beach, Brindley, 36, account executive, was alerted to their plight. He and others entered the water and swam out for the victims, the boy then being re-established on his board and sent kicking toward shore. He left the water uninjured. The rescuers attempted to remove the boy's father, who had been overcome in the water, but rough conditions thwarted their efforts initially. Brindley too was overcome and was next seen floating face down near the father. Both men were recovered from the surf by others. The father drowned. Brindley was taken to the hospital, where he died the following day, also of drowning. 76984-8811

SHEILA BROWN

Alliston, Ontario

Sheila Brown saved Heather M. Coward from burning, Alliston, Ontario, July 8, 2003. Ms. Coward, 18, was the driver of an automobile that, in a high-way accident, left the roadway and overturned onto its passenger side in the front yard of a residence. Conscious but dazed, Ms. Coward remained in the car, restrained by her safety belt, as flames erupted in the engine area and smoke issued from the front of the car. Residents of the neighborhood, including Ms. Brown, 46, homemaker, heard the crash and responded to the scene. Ms. Brown reached through the open driver's window to release the safety belt, then left to obtain a stepladder from her garage. Returning, she positioned the ladder next to the roof, then climbed it, reached into the car to grasp Ms. Coward, and helped Ms. Coward pull herself through the window and out of the car. They descended to the ground and fled just before a sudden spread of flames nearly engulfed the car. Ms. Coward was hospitalized for treatment of injuries received during the crash, and she recovered. 77092-8827

FRED A. BRYANT

Waxahachie, Texas

Fred A. Bryant rescued Daniel Oh from burning, Red Oak, Texas, May 18, 2003. Daniel, 2, was a passenger in a car that caught fire in a collision with a tractor-trailer on an interstate highway. Demolished, its front end missing, the car came to rest alongside the tractor-trailer, which also caught fire. Motorists stopping at the scene included Bryant, 58, retired electronics technician. Bryant approached the car and, on hearing a child crying there, entered through the broken windshield, despite flames inside the vehicle. Extending all but his feet into the car, Bryant found Daniel, who was restrained in his safety seat, which was lodged in the back-seat area. Unable to free Daniel because of a tightly secured strap, Bryant exited the car and obtained a knife from a bystander. Re-entering, he cut the strap, freeing Daniel, and removed him from the car, then carried him to safety. The car was shortly

Evan remained restrained in a safety seat in the back-seat area, and his mother, who was the driver, was trapped in the front-seat area. A man who lived nearby mounted the vehicle, opened the driver's door, and pulled Evan's mother out. Flagged down while passing by, Custer, 45, courier, had responded to the car by then, and he too mounted its driver's side, where he held the driver's door open while the other man worked to free Evan from inside the car. Despite growing flames and intensifying smoke in the car's interior, Custer entered the car partially and also worked to free Evan from his seat. Using a knife provided by a bystander, the other man cut the straps of Evan's seat, after which Custer passed Evan outside the car to his mother. GERARD F. DEAN

Centereach, New York

Gerard F. Dean helped attempt to save Calvin C. Kohart from drowning, Wading River, New York, October 6, 2003. Working at a house on a bluff overlooking the scene, Dean, 38, swimming pool service technician, saw the boys' situation and immediately responded to the shoreline. Removing his shirts and boots, Dean entered the water and waded, then swam, to Calvin, the other boys having made it to wadable water. Dean grasped Calvin by his attire and returned toward shore, with difficulty against a strong current. Submerging, swallowing water, and tiring in the cold water, Dean called out for help. A coworker took one end of a line out to Dean, enabling him, with Calvin, to be pulled the remaining distance to shore, where Dean lost consciousness. He was revived at the scene, then was taken to the hospital, where he was treated for hypothermia. He subsequently developed acute renal failure and required a hospital stay. He recovered. Scott, 2, and his brother Christopher, 8 months old, were restrained in car seats secured to the rear seat of a sport utility vehicle that rolled down a boat ramp and began to submerge in Lake Wallenpaupack. Nearby on the bank, Domotor, 44, off-duty police officer, saw the accident. He immediately ran to the ramp, then entered the water and swam to the vehicle. He entered the vehicle head first through the opened driver's window, extended his upper body into the back-seat area, and, with assistance from the boys' father, who also had swum out, freed Scott from his car seat. Removed from the vehicle by his father, Scott was taken to the bank. As Domotor worked to free Christopher from his seat, the vehicle, then about 40 feet from the bank, quickly sank the 12 feet to the bottom of the lake, taking Domotor with it. With no visibility in the murky water, Domotor continued his attempt to free Christopher, then, running out of air, yanked him from the seat. He cradled the boy under his arm, exited the vehicle through the driver's window, and surfaced. Although nearly exhausted, Domotor swam back to the bank, Christopher on his chest, then lay on the ramp to recover. Christopher was taken to the hospital, where he was found to be uninjured, as was Scott. 77036-8775

Josue, 7, and Gonzalez, 44, were adrift in Half Moon Bay of the Pacific Ocean after their boat took on water and sank while they were on a fishing outing. After three hours, they were spotted by Frederick, 27, graphic artist, and others from a bluff overlooking the bay. Frederick descended a trail to the beach, removed his outer attire, and, despite the 58-degree water, entered the surf and swam to Josue, who was 90 feet from shore in large breakers. Grasping Josue by his life jacket, Frederick towed him to shore, then removed the life jacket and donned it himself. He re-entered the water and swam about 450 feet to Gonzalez, who, in high swells beyond the breakers, submerged shortly before Frederick reached him. Frederick submerged, grasped Gonzalez, and pulled him to the surface. A man in a kayak responded, but his attempt to tow Frederick and Gonzalez to shore was unsuccessful against a strong current. Frederick kept Gonzalez afloat until rescue personnel aboard a personal watercraft responded and removed him to a boat farther out. Aided by a line from the kayak, Frederick then swam to shore, where he collapsed on the beach. Both suffering hypothermia, Josue and Gonzalez required hospital treatment. Gittins, 35, diesel mechanic, was driving across a bridge that spanned the Red River when he saw a man, 29, standing at the bridge railing. Continuing, he then learned that the man had jumped, in an apparent suicide attempt. Gittins left his vehicle and ran down to the river's edge. The man surfaced at about midpoint in the river but was being carried downstream by the current, made swift by runoff. Gittins followed him on the bank, then, blocked by brush, entered the frigid water and continued along the bank. Reaching a dock, he obtained a life ring, which he donned, and other aids. He swam out to the man, who was face down about 200 feet from the bank, and grasped him by his jacket. With his free hand, Gittins began to swim back to the bank. Firefighters were arriving, and two men launched a boat from the bank and maneuvered it toward Gittins. They took the victim aboard and returned to the bank, Gittins following. Lane abandoned his car and aided others across the highway's concrete medial barrier to where the lanes of opposing traffic were not then significantly affected by flooding. Likewise, another stranded motorist was providing assistance, including the removal of a 79-year-old woman from her car. Rather than remain in the safety of the opposing lanes of traffic, Lane and the other motorist returned to the flooded area, where they approached Gorman's car in the steadily rising water. They aided Gorman through the driver's door, then took him to safety across the barrier, where he sought refuge in another vehicle. Lane remained there to warn motorists of the danger ahead as the other man returned toward the flooded area, where he was last seen aiding a young family. The buildup of floodwaters against the barrier caused its collapse and washed seven vehicles from the roadway. Six persons drowned, including the motorist who had returned to help. Despite having almost no visibility in the smoke, he twice entered the house through the rear door but was forced to retreat each time, first after being nearly overcome by conditions and then after becoming stunned when he bumped into a support post. On his third attempt, Lum, crouching, made his way into the living room, where he found Ms. Robinson, who lay on the floor. Grasping her by the ankle, he pulled her to the rear door, then outside, where he covered her with his body to protect her from the flying glass of breaking windows. Witnessing the accident, Neville, 31, security officer, and other motorists immediately responded to the car, which was positioned across the tracks. With the help of another man, Neville opened the front passenger door while others responded to the aid of Ms. Wittkamp's husband, who had been driving. They led him to safety. When the headlight of a train, fast approaching on the far track, came into view, the other man freed Ms. Wittkamp from her safety belt, then he and Neville removed her from the car and carried her off the tracks. Within moments the train arrived and struck the front of the car. Ms. Wittkamp was taken to the hospital, where she was detained six days for treatment of her injuries. 76978-8796

DEBRA NICHOLLS

Trabuco Canyon, California

Debra Nicholls helped to rescue Anne M. Hjelle from an attacking mountain lion, Lake Forest, California, January 8, 2004. Ms. Hjelle, 30, was riding her bicycle in a county park when a 122-pound mountain lion jumped on her back from the brush adjoining the trail. The lion took her to the ground, her neck in its jaws. Ms. Nicholls, 48, mountain bike racer, was riding with Ms. Hjelle and came upon the scene within moments. She immediately got off her bicycle and threw it at the lion, then she grasped Ms. Hjelle by the leg as the lion pulled her from the trail into the brush. The lion dragged Ms. Hjelle to a point about 30 feet from the trail, Ms. Nicholls continuing to provide resistance. Alerted by the women's screams, other bicyclists responded and threw rocks at the lion. It released its grip on Ms. Hjelle and retreated. Ms. Nicholls and others carried Ms. Hjelle back to the trail, from which she was evacuated to a hospital. Detained there eight days, she required treatment, including surgery, for severe bite wounds to her neck and face. Ms. Nicholls sustained scratches to her legs from the brush, and she recovered. 77407-8859

JUPP O. NORHAUSEN

Port Orange, Florida

Jupp O. Norhausen rescued a woman from burning, Port Orange, Florida, May 12, 2003. A 47-year-old woman was in the bathroom of her rented, one-story home as fires burned in both its living room and kitchen. From his house on the same property, her landlord, Norhausen, 53, electrical engineer, discovered the fire. He responded to the scene and gained access to the unit, finding it filled with dense smoke that virtually precluded visibility. Crawling past flames in both burning areas, he searched for the woman, going from the living room through the kitchen and bedroom before finding her in the shower. Norhausen took her to the floor, then pulled on her as they crawled to the living room and outside to safety. The woman required hospitalization for burns to the upper part of her body, and Norhausen sustained a blistered hand, from which he recovered. 76923-8814

CHARLES E. NORMAN

Potsdam, New York

Charles E. Norman helped to save Matthew J. McKeon from burning, Colton, New York, November 6, 2002. McKeon, 30, was driver of a tractor-trailer that caught fire after a highway accident involving a dump truck. He stepped from the tractor and fell to the pavement as fuel from the overturned trailer's load of 8,000 gallons of gasoline and diesel fuel escaped to the highway, then to the lot of an adjacent convenience store. Other motorists stopped at the scene, including Norman, 59, equipment operator, who witnessed the accident. Norman ran to the tractor, despite flames on it and on the pavement nearby, then seized McKeon by his collar and dragged him to the shoulder of the highway. He was aided in taking McKeon farther to safety, flames spreading to engulf and destroy the tractor-trailer, the dump truck, and another vehicle that was parked nearby. McKeon required hospital treatment for his injuries.

CHRISTOPHER OIKLE

Warren, New Hampshire

Christopher Oikle saved Jared Champigny from drowning, Warren, New Hampshire, August 5, 2003. While on an outing with family and friends along a secluded section of the Baker River, Jared, 13, jumped from a boulder into a pool of the river and became caught in the turbulent water there. The river was cold, swollen due to recent rains, and swift through the rocky gorge in which the pool was located. Nearby, Oikle, 21, dredge operator, was alerted to Jared's plight as the adults in that party were attempting a rescue. Despite having decided not to swim at the scene that day because of the water conditions, Oikle responded to a point on a boulder adjacent the pool and jumped into the river. He swam to Jared, grasped him around the chest, and, numbing in the cold water, secured him. Oikle then lifted Jared to the end of a line that the others had dropped from atop the boulders. They pulled him from the pool, then lowered the line to Oikle and pulled him through the pool to where he could safely leave the river. Jared suffered a cut on his back but did not require medical treatment. Oikle was shaken and nearly exhausted but later recovered. 77159-8810

TRACY J. OLSON

Largo, Florida

Tracy J. Olson saved Ann P. Adamski from drowning, Port Richey, Florida, May 7, 2003. Ms. Adamski, 87, was the driver of a car that left the roadway, entered a canal, and began to sink nose first in water nine feet deep at a point about 20 feet from the bank. Olson, 41, laborer, witnessed the accident from his home on that bank. After reporting it, he responded to the canal, taking a hammer with him. Despite his limited swimming ability, Olson waded and dog-paddled to the car, then, using the hammer, broke out the rear window on its driver's side. He entered the car partially, head first, and released Ms. Adamski's safety belt, then withdrew. Ms. Adamski crawled onto the back-seat area, the car sinking more quickly by its taking in water through the broken window. Olson pulled Ms. Adamski from the car. A brief struggle ensued, during which Olson submerged. Resurfacing, he pushed Ms. Adamski, also a poor swimmer, toward the bank. When they reached wadable water, another man helped to remove Ms. Adamski from the canal. She was shaken but sustained only minor cuts, from which she recovered. 76884-8809

RICHARD R. PATEY

Jacksonville Beach, Florida

Richard R. Patey saved Ana S. Hernandez from burning, Jacksonville, Florida, October 21, 2003. Ms. Hernandez, 82, was lying in bed after fire erupted in a carport at the opposite end of her one-story house and spread to its interior. Passing motorists, including Patey, 40, taxicab driver, and others discovered the fire and gathered at the scene. Learning that the house was probably occupied, Patey opened a sliding-glass door at the back of the structure and called to anyone inside. When Ms. Hernandez responded, Patey entered the living room, which was filling with smoke, and proceeded through a hall toward the bedrooms. He forced open the door to Ms. Hernandez's room, then picked her up and carried her out of the bedroom, through the hall and living room, and outside. Flames spread throughout the house and destroyed it, and they reached the vehicle and house of the next-door neighbor. Ms. Hernandez and Patey required hospital treatment for smoke inhalation, and they recovered. 77249-8858

TERRY R. PEASE

Cambria, Wisconsin

Terry R. Pease saved Lindsey M. and helped to save Melissa M. Bauer from burning, Cambria, Wisconsin, August 25, 2003. Lindsey, 3, was in her car seat in the back seat of an automobile driven by her mother, Ms. Bauer, 26, when, in a highway accident, the car was knocked off the roadway and into a farmyard. Ms. Bauer was trapped in the wreckage, from which flames issued in the engine area. Pease, 40, quality assurance monitor, and a friend drove upon the scene and stopped. Pease opened the car's right rear door and removed Lindsey while his friend attempted to gain entry to the vehicle on its driver's side. Unsuccessful, he entered the back-seat area of the car from its passenger side and pulled on the driver's seat to free Ms. Bauer while Pease entered the front-seat area and did the same. Flames entering the car through its broken-out windshield ignited the dashboard and ceiling. After his friend managed to pull the seat back, Pease worked to free Ms. Bauer's legs, which remained trapped underneath the dashboard. The men then maneuvered Ms. Bauer into the back seat and removed her from the car. Lindsey and Ms. Bauer required hospital treatment for injuries received during the collision, but neither was burned. Pease sustained minor burns to his hands and head, and he recovered. 77387-8862

FLOYD O. POLLARD

Smelterville, Idaho

Floyd O. Pollard rescued Vaughn Gaschet de l'Isle from burning, Kingston, Idaho, June 29, 2003. Gaschet de l'Isle, 57, was the driver of a pickup truck that, in a highway accident, left the roadway and partially overturned onto its passenger side against an embankment. The pickup had been towing a 31-foot recreational vehicle, and it too overturned. Fire broke out at the back of the truck, and flames spread to the cab and the front of the recreational vehicle. Pollard, 35, disabled logger, was driving on a nearby overpass when he witnessed the accident. He climbed over a guide rail and descended the embankment to the level of the highway, then approached the pickup. Gaschet de l'Isle had removed his safety belt but could not open the truck's driver's door, which was jammed. Pollard likewise tried to open the door, then he attempted to break out its window, again with no success. Pollard mounted the truck's hood and attempted to pull out the windshield, but he cut his hands on the glass. He then kicked out the windshield and moved it aside. Gaschet de l'Isle extended his arms through the opening, and Pollard grasped them and pulled him out of the cab, onto the hood. After they stepped to the ground, Pollard helped Gaschet de l'Isle walk away from the truck, which was shortly engulfed by flames. Gaschet de l'Isle sustained a slight burn to an ear and other minor injuries and was treated at the hospital. Pollard recovered from the lacerations to his hands. 77043-8791

MARK A. POTTER

Canaan, Maine

Mark A. Potter saved Lindsey M. Ryder and helped to save Evan J. Moody from burning, Canaan, Maine, September 3, 2003. Ms. Ryder, 22, was the driver of a car that left the roadway, went part way down an embankment, and came to rest on its passenger side against small trees, flames breaking out at its front end. She was trapped in the car, as was her son, Evan, 3, who remained restrained in a safety seat in the back-seat area. Potter, 42, dental equipment technician who lived nearby, heard the accident and ran to the scene. He mounted the vehicle to its driver's side and opened the driver's door, then reached inside, grasped Ms. Ryder, and pulled her out. Despite growing flames and intensifying smoke in the car's interior, Potter entered the car completely and worked to free Evan from his seat. Flagged down while passing by, another man had responded to the car by then, and he too mounted its driver's side, where he held the driver's door open. Using a knife provided by a bystander, Potter cut the straps of Evan's seat, the other man partially entering the car to assist. Thus freed, Evan was passed outside the car by the other man to Ms. Ryder. The other man then aided Potter, who was nearly exhausted, from the car, and they, along with Ms. Ryder and Evan, returned up the embankment to safety. Spreading flames virtually engulfed the car shortly. Ms. Ryder and Evan were treated at the hospital for bruises, and they recovered. Potter sustained minor smoke inhalation, from which he recovered. 77138-8802

JOHN RELICK

Latrobe, Pennsylvania

John Relick helped to save Ruth A. Ansel from burning, Latrobe, Pennsylvania, August 30, 2003. Ms. Ansel, 48, was the driver of a pickup truck that, in an accident at night, left the roadway and struck a large tree. Unconscious, she lay face down inside the vehicle. Relick, 59, truck driver, who lived at the scene, responded to the truck along with his son. They attempted to open its doors but found them jammed shut. When fire then erupted in the truck's engine area, Relick's son used two extinguishers against the flames but to little effect. Fire spread suddenly to the passenger side of the pickup. Relick, meanwhile, succeeded in opening the driver's door after much struggle. He reached inside the pickup and pulled Ms. Ansel onto the driver's seat. One of her feet remained caught between the pedals, and Relick worked to free it. He and his son then dragged Ms. Ansel from the vehicle and to safety moments before another burst of flames at the truck, which was destroyed by the accident and fire. Ms. Ansel required hospitalization for treatment of injuries received during the crash. 77109-8842

JOHN AARON RELICK

Latrobe, Pennsylvania

John Aaron Relick helped to save Ruth A. Ansel from burning, Latrobe, Pennsylvania, August 30, 2003. Ms. Ansel, 48, was the driver of a pickup truck that, in an accident at night, left the roadway and struck a large tree. Unconscious, she lay face down inside the vehicle. Relick, 34, glassworker, who lived at the scene, responded to the truck along with his father. They attempted to open its doors but found them jammed shut. When fire then erupted in the truck's engine area, Relick used two extinguishers against the flames but to little effect. Fire spread suddenly to the passenger side of the pickup. Relick's father, meanwhile, succeeded in opening the driver's door after much struggle. He reached inside the pickup and pulled Ms. Ansel onto the driver's seat. One of her feet remained caught between the pedals, and he worked to free it. Relick then responded to the driver's door. He and his father dragged Ms. Ansel from the pickup and to safety moments before another burst of flames at the truck, which was destroyed by the accident and fire. Ms. Ansel required hospitalization for treatment of injuries received during the crash. 77110-8843

OLGA RENÉE ROSANDER

Elk Grove, California

Olga Renée Rosander helped to save Clifford M. Gandy from burning, Elk Grove, California, June 25, 2003. Gandy, 70, was unconscious in the driver's seat of a pickup truck after an accident in which the truck struck two parked vehicles, then crossed a lawn and struck a one-story residence. The truck was partially embedded in the residence, one of the other vehicles ending up on the lawn just a few feet away. A gas line at the residence was severed in the accident, and escaping gas under pressure caught fire, flames spreading to the truck and the residence. Neighbors, including Ms. Rosander, 48, custodial supervisor, heard the crash and responded to the scene. Although she was barefoot, Ms. Rosander made her way between the wrecked vehicles, despite the truck's positioning over the burning gas line. One of the neighbors had opened the truck's driver's door and cut Gandy's safety belt. Ms. Rosander approached him and pulled on him as he pulled Gandy from the truck. Ms. Rosander and the neighbor then dragged Gandy from between the vehicles and to a point of safety across the street. Flames grew quickly on the truck and in the residence. Gandy was taken to the hospital for observation, and Ms. Rosander required hospital treatment for a cut on one foot, from which she recovered. 76999-8807

BELINDA LEE ROSE

Pass Lake, Ontario

Belinda Lee Rose helped to save a man from falling, Elora, Ontario, April 11, 2001. A 58-year-old man who was attempting suicide was at an outlook atop a 70-foot-high promontory at the convergence of the Grand and Irvine rivers. Beyond the 30-inch-high wall that rimmed the outlook was a narrow ledge that formed the far end of the promontory. On duty, Ms. Rose, 29, police officer, was called to the scene. On her arrival, the man, who had secured a rope to his neck, dived head first partially over the wall. Although he outweighed her by 120 pounds, Ms. Rose grasped the man about the lower legs and held to him as they balanced atop the wall, the man struggling against Ms. Rose and Ms. Rose losing her footing. Another officer arrived within minutes and pulled Ms. Rose and the man back to the safety of the landing. Both were taken to the hospital, where the man was treated for injury to his back. Ms. Rose required treatment for contusions and abrasions, and she recovered. 76539-8864

JOHN AUGUSTUS ROSE II

Upland, California

John Augustus Rose II helped to save Sigrid Szymczak-Hopson from burning, Azusa, California, September 1, 2002. Ms. Szymczak-Hopson, 70, was at her cabin in the San Gabriel Canyon of the Angeles National Forest when a forest fire broke out about three miles away and began to advance in that direction. Authorities evacuated the canyon of its residents and visitors, but Ms. Szymczak-Hopson was reluctant to leave. The sheriff's department learned that she remained in the path of the fire, and two of its deputies, including Rose, 32, elected to respond. The other deputy driving, the men took a sport utility vehicle on the only road into the canyon, defying both a roadblock that had been established by firefighters and warnings that the road was impassable. The first part of their 8.5-mile route was through an area over which the fire had already passed but where hot spots remained, flames flaring then receding on either side and debris littering the roadway. About a half-mile from the cabin, the road narrowed to one lane, with a 300-foot drop to the side. Flame conditions were more severe there, and dense smoke reduced visibility to only a few feet. The other deputy pulled the vehicle into a parking lot near the cabin and kept it moving to avoid engine failure as Rose ran 650 feet to the cabin, where he found Ms. Szymczak-Hopson. After Rose returned to the vehicle with her, the other deputy pulled back onto the roadway, where conditions were deteriorating: Visibility was further limited and intense heat made its way into the vehicle. They navigated the narrow portion of the roadway, then continued toward safety until one of the vehicle's tires flattened, about four miles from the roadblock. Another flattened shortly after, and the rest of the vehicle showed extensive fire- and debris-related damage. Firefighters responded shortly and took them to safety; neither Ms. Szymczak-Hopson nor Rose and his partner was injured. The fire burned for 13 days over more than 20,000 acres before it was contained.

NEIL JAY ROSENBERG

Westerly, Rhode Island

Neil Jay Rosenberg saved Robert L. Ingram and died attempting to rescue Crystal L. and Carol Ingram and Tara Verrier from burning, Westerly, Rhode Island, July 17, 2002. Ingram, 68, who required the use of a wheelchair, was in a first-floor bedroom of his family's two-story house after fire broke out in the living room in the early morning. Rosenberg then turned and re-entered the house, in which flames were spreading quickly. He was next seen at a window in the second-floor bedroom of his half sisters, Crystal, 10, and Carol, 9. They died in the fire, as did Rosenberg's girlfriend, Ms. Verrier, 21, who was in another bedroom on the second floor. 76270-8783

Bellevue, Ohio

C. James Rospert rescued Rachael Baughn from an attacking dog, Bellevue, Ohio, May 14, 2003. Rachael, 16, was struggling to restrain her family's 70-pound dog in the front yard of their home after it attacked a boy, inflicting a severe bite wound. The dog then turned on her, biting her repeatedly about the arms and legs. She yelled for help. In his car parked nearby, Rospert, 68, retired truck driver, heard Rachael scream, then saw the attack. He hurried to the scene, donning a pair of leather gloves he had in his car. As Rospert reached Rachael and the dog, the dog broke free of Rachael and attacked him, biting him on his right forearm. Rospert fought the dog off, but it bit him twice more before he kicked it away. Police responded shortly and captured the dog. Rachael and the boy both required hospital treatment for their wounds, as did Rospert, who was detained for surgery. He retained scarring. 76957-8816

JEFFREY GLENN RUSSELL

Tacoma, Washington

Jeffrey Glenn Russell died attempting to save Joseph B. Bailey from drowning, Orick, California, January 2, 2004. While playing on a Pacific Ocean beach, Joseph, 8, was pulled into the rough surf, then taken out from shore. His mother, who was nearby, ran into the water for him, but they were separated in the waves. Joseph's uncle, Russell, 38, construction company superintendent, was at the beach parking area when he was alerted to the situation. He immediately ran to the beach, then continued running into the 50-degree water and swam out to Joseph, who was then about 40 feet from shore. Russell held Joseph to his chest as they were carried by a strong longshore current over the course of several minutes. During that time, Joseph was lost to sight of those on shore, then Russell. Responding rescue personnel recovered Russell from the surf at a point about 1,500 feet from where he had entered the water. He could not be revived, as he had drowned. Joseph was not found. 77442-8854

DOUGLAS JOHN SAUER

Marine City, Michigan

Douglas John Sauer helped to save Michael F. Goode from drowning, Harrison Township, Michigan, January 19, 2003. Goode, 49, was operating his snowmobile on ice-covered Lake St. Clair when the ice gave way beneath him about three-fourths of a mile from shore and he fell into water about six feet deep. The air temperature was about 15 degrees, and winds compounded its chill. Ice fishermen, including Sauer, 23, cement mason, responded to the scene, where their efforts to throw a line to Goode were unsuccessful. Sauer, who was wearing a life jacket, had one end of the line tied to him, then he lay prone and began to crawl toward Goode. The ice broke beneath him. After others pulled him back onto solid ice, Sauer stood and ran toward Goode, then plunged into the open water. Momentarily stunned by its coldness, Sauer swam about 80 feet to Goode, reaching and holding to him from behind. The other fishermen pulled on the line and returned them to the edge of solid ice, then hauled them out of the water. They were taken by all-terrain vehicles to shore, where rescue personnel were waiting. Goode was hospitalized for hypothermia, and he recovered. Sauer declined medical attention at the scene but required two days to recover from exposure to the cold water. 76643-8853

BRETT MICHAEL SCHOTT

Vancouver, Washington

Brett Michael Schott helped to rescue Marcus Young from assault, Ukiah, California, March 7, 2003. While securing a shoplifting suspect in his patrol car, which was parked in the lot of a department store, Young, 40, a police officer, was approached by the suspect's male accomplice. The accomplice pulled a knife on Young, and the two men struggled for control of it. The assailant then produced a revolver and shot Young repeatedly at point-blank range, inflicting severe injury. Schott, 28, loss prevention associate at the store, was nearby in the parking lot and witnessed the shooting. He ran to the men, who had continued to struggle, and struck the assailant repeatedly, then wrested the gun from him and discarded it. The assailant stabbed Schott in the upper side of his chest, inflicting a severe wound, then gained access to the patrol car. Having sought refuge behind a parked vehicle nearby, the high school student who had accompanied Young to the scene as a volunteer police cadet radioed for assistance, then left his cover to approach Young. He removed Young's pistol from its holster and handed it to him for his use in dispatching the assailant. Young and Schott were taken to the hospital, where they were detained for treatment of their wounds, both requiring surgery.

At the plant, Scotti, 28, off-duty sanitation police officer, was alerted to the situation. He responded to the bank and, despite the 42-degree water temperature, entered the river and began to swim after Jonathan. Another man also entered the water and, reaching Jonathan, took him to a pier at the power plant, from which point they were removed from the river by responding police personnel. Scotti also reached the pier, and he too was recovered by rescue units. He, Jonathan, and the other man all required hospital treatment, Scotti for nearly drowning. He recovered. 76809-8824

JOHN A. SEGER

Nahant, Massachusetts

John A. Seger helped to save Deborah G. Savage from burning, Nahant, Massachusetts, November 13, 2002. At night, Ms. Savage, 45, lay unconscious in the hallway of her one-story house after fire erupted in the basement and spread to the main floor. A neighbor, Seger, 41, architect, responded to the scene and joined others, including a police officer, in their attempts to locate her. Seger opened a bedroom window, then, hearing Ms. Savage moan, climbed through it. Although visibility was nil in the smoke-filled house, he crawled through the bedroom and into the hall, where he located Ms. Savage. Repulsed by smoke, however, he returned to the window for air. The officer gave him a flashlight, and Seger retraced his path to Ms. Savage. He dragged her to the bedroom window but struggled when he attempted to pass her through it. Nearly overcome by smoke, Seger climbed through the window. The officer entered the house through the window and passed Ms. Savage outside to others. She was then taken to the hospital for treatment. 76703-8799

JON M. SHELBY

Millville, California

Jon M. Shelby saved Daniel McConville from burning, Dunsmuir, California, July 13, 2002. McConville, 63, was inside his mobile home after fire erupted in the kitchen. Driving nearby, Shelby, 46, contractor, saw smoke and stopped at the scene. He approached the home and, unable to see inside because of dense smoke, called out to see if anyone was there. McConville answered him. Shelby entered the home but was repulsed by smoke. He entered a second time, crawling, but was again forced out. On a third attempt, he crawled to McConville, whom he found sitting in a chair in the living room, about 10 feet from the door. Shelby grasped McConville, pulled him to the floor, and dragged him to the front door, then from the structure. McConville was hospitalized for treatment of smoke inhalation. 76338-8772

Shelton, 46, backhoe operator, and three coworkers were traveling through the neighborhood and, seeing smoke issue from the roof of the house, discovered the fire. They responded to the structure, where Shelton opened the front door and entered. Although the smoke precluded visibility, Shelton crawled through the living room. Catching a glimpse of Ms. Davis's ankle, he grasped her and pulled her to the floor, then crawled back to the front door, dragging her. One of his coworkers helped remove her from the house. Ms. Davis was hospitalized more than a week for treatment of smoke inhalation, and she recovered. Her husband was rescued by firefighters but did not long survive. 76762-8801

RODNEY PAUL SHUNTA

Muskegon, Michigan

Rodney Paul Shunta saved Jennifer J. Campbell from drowning, Muskegon, Michigan, August 24, 2003. Ms. Campbell, 20, was swimming in Lake Michigan when she found herself far from shore in water over her depth. She struggled to return against a strong undertow and to stay afloat in the rough water. It was dusk. Shunta, 38, water plant operator, was walking atop a break wall that extended several hundred feet from shore into the lake when he saw Ms. Campbell about 100 feet off to the side. He removed his shoes and shirt, entered the water, and swam to Ms. Campbell, who was about 600 feet from shore. After they rested a bit, Ms. Campbell held to Shunta while they swam toward shore, Shunta having decided against returning to the wall because of waves breaking there. Once they were able to stand, Shunta walked Ms. Campbell out of the water. Ms. Campbell was treated by paramedics at the scene, then went to the hospital for observation, but she was not injured. Shunta was tired after the rescue but recovered the next day. 77154-8815

Police officers responding by then dispatched the man after he approached them in the yard and threatened them with the knife. Sword was hospitalized five days for treatment of multiple knife wounds, including a collapsed lung. Sullivan sustained a laceration to his right hand, from which he recovered. 77123-8830

TIMOTHY KENT SULLIVAN

Millry, Alabama

Timothy Kent Sullivan helped to save Dennis R. Carney from burning, Waynesboro, Mississippi, September 8, 2003. Carney, 28, was the driver of a tractor-trailer that, in a roadway accident, overturned into a ditch along the road shoulder and caught fire in its engine area. Unconscious, he was pinned upside down in the wreckage, a leg caught in the steering wheel. Driving behind Carney, Sullivan, 42, farmer, witnessed the accident and stopped at the scene. He approached the exposed driver's side of the tractor, the cab of which was filling with smoke, and, with another motorist who had stopped, attempted to open the door. Unsuccessful, Sullivan and the other man returned to their vehicles for metal bars for use in prying open the door, but that effort failed also. After the other man used his bar to break out the door's window,

Sullivan and he reached into the cab and unfastened Carney's safety belt, then grasped him about the upper body and repeatedly tugged to release him. Exhorting Carney to free his leg, Sullivan and the other man then pulled him through the window as flame conditions worsened, debris from the burning tractor dropping about them. Sullivan and the other man carried Carney to safety on the road shoulder shortly before flames overtook the tractor, destroying it. Taken to the hospital, Carney suffered cuts and bruises, from which he recovered. 77173-8834

· JEREMY F. TESSLER
Carlsbad, California

Jeremy F. Tessler helped in an attempt to save an indeterminate number of persons from assault, Valley Center, California, April 12, 2003. Tessler, 31, was at work as a parking valet for a casino and was posted at one of the establishment's entrances when an armed man approached on foot to gain entry to the building. The man was a fugitive wanted in connection with an armed robbery that day, and other crimes, and he had been pursued to the premises of the casino by police. An unarmed security officer physically engaged the man to keep him from entering the building, but the man made his way through the doors opening to the lobby, the security officer going to the floor. Tessler and another casino employee rushed the man and tackled him. The man produced a loaded gun and fired it, hitting Tessler in the leg. The security officer crawled to the assailant and further attempted to restrain him, but the assailant fired at him, striking him in the head at close range and killing him. The assailant then went toward the gaming area of the casino when police arrived and fired at him. He turned his gun on himself and inflicted a mortal wound. Tessler required hospital treatment for his injury. 76827-8819

JOHN VALENTI

New Haven, Connecticut

John Valenti helped to rescue Michael Van Growski from assault, Stratford, Connecticut, February 3, 2004. Van Growski, 27, a police officer, was assaulted by a man he was attempting to question in the parking lot of a store. They went to the pavement, where the assailant struck Van Growski repeatedly and, attempting to get his service revolver, threatened to kill him. Valenti, 66, postal service truck driver, was parked nearby and saw the men struggling. He ran to a point behind the assailant, who was atop Van Growski, pinning him, and punched him. When the assailant resumed his attempt to get at the revolver, Valenti held to him until other officers, arriving shortly, apprehended him. Van Growski was treated at the hospital for lacerations and contusions, and Valenti required medical treatment for a laceration to his hand. Both men recovered. 77505-8852

JEREMY VIGIL

Ramona, California

Jeremy Vigil helped in an attempt to save an indeterminate number of persons from assault, Valley Center, California, April 12, 2003. Vigil, 25, was at work as supervisor of front services for a casino and was posted at one of the establishment's entrances when an armed man approached on foot to gain entry to the building. DAVID WARE

Brampton, Ontario

David Ware rescued Lisa Suzuki from an attacking dog, Brampton, Ontario, October 20, 2003. Lisa, 5, was walking along a residential sidewalk when an adult, male pit bull approached and charged her, knocking her to the ground. Grasping her by the coat, the 67-pound dog shook her as her mother attempted unsuccessfully to free her. Ware, 50, industrial mechanic, witnessed the attack as he drove by. He parked and approached Lisa, but the dog turned on him, lunging at him. They went to the ground, Ware struggling against the dog to restrain it while Lisa fled. The struggle lasted for several minutes, during which Ware was bitten repeatedly. The dog then broke from Ware and charged a responding police officer. The officer shot the dog, disabling it. Lisa suffered minor injuries about the face and head, and she recovered. Ware required hospital treatment for puncture wounds to his face, hands, and arms. He too recovered. 77289-8850

JAMES WAYNE WATKINS

Fairmont, West Virginia

James Wayne Watkins helped to save Cody Davis from drowning, Fairmont, West Virginia, June 14, 2003. After a heavy rain, Cody, 8, and two other boys were caught up in the floodwaters of Scratchers Run Creek and swept downstream by the extremely swift current. Watkins, 34, was traveling the road bordering the creek when he was alerted to the situation by a neighbor. Seeing Cody clinging by his legs to a tree on the opposite bank, Watkins ran to the muddy creek, then jumped into it from a point just upstream of Cody and let the current carry him to the boy. Grasping Cody with one arm and the tree with the other, Watkins kept Cody's head above water. Another man descended the bank and pulled Cody and Watkins to safety, Watkins then reviving the boy. Cody, who suffered a bruise to his head, was taken to the hospital, where he was detained a day for treatment of hypothermia. Watkins sustained cuts and bruises. One of the other boys was rescued by another neighbor, but the third boy drowned. 77441-8857

ANDREA IVIE WEBB

Corsicana, Texas

Andrea Ivie Webb rescued Kimberly D. Crow and 17 other students from assault, Ennis, Texas, May 15, 2001. Kimberly, 16, the other students, and their teacher Ms. Webb, 53, were in a high school classroom when another student entered the room, produced a loaded revolver, and held them at gunpoint. Standing between her students and the assailant, Ms. Webb talked to the assailant, asking him to release the others. He refused and instead told Ms. Webb to leave the room. Forfeiting her opportunity to flee, Ms. Webb offered herself as a hostage in the students' place. The assailant allowed all of the students except Kimberly to leave the room, then he and Kimberly talked, Ms. Webb shielding Kimberly behind her back. Becoming more agitated, the assailant approached Ms. Webb, aimed the gun at her, then turned and fired into a nearby television. He then turned the gun on himself and inflicted a mortal wound. Ms. Webb pushed Kimberly to the floor and shielded her with her body. Police arrived and removed Kimberly and Ms. Webb from the classroom. 76546-8769

JOSEPH DANE WOOD

Carrollton, Texas

Joseph Dane Wood died attempting to help save Frederick L. Person from burning, Dallas, Texas, January 14, 2003. Person, 27, was unconscious and trapped inside his burning car after an interstate highway accident at night. The third man entered the car through the opened driver's door and in repeated attempts was likewise unable to remove the belt, Wood and his friend remaining at the driver's door. A car traveling at an extremely high rate of speed approached the scene and passed the burning car on its driver's side, striking the three rescuers. Wood and his friend were thrown 150 feet. They died of their injuries. The third man was severely injured in his left leg but made it to the safety of the shoulder.

THE FALSE HEROES OF BARBAROUS MAN ARE THOSE

 THE DESTRUCTION OF THEIR
 FELLOWS. THE TRUE HEROES OF CIVILIZATION ARE THOSE
 ALONE WHO SAVE OR GREATLY
 SERVE THEM.—Andrew Carnegie,

 [HEROES] TO CHALLENGE
 DEATH ON BEHALF OF THEIR FELLOWS IS NOT PECULIAR

 THAT IS THE ABIDING WONDER OF THE STORY. — Roger Rosenblatt,

FELLOWS ENDANGERED;
NEVER OF THEMSELVES.

WITH ALL OUR WEAKNESSES AND IMPERFECTIONS, THERE IS SOME ELEMENT IN OUR
 MAKEUP THAT WILL TAKE US
 TO THE HEIGHTS. HEROISM
 IS NOT MADE; SOME TRAGEDY
 FINDS IT OUT. LIKE GOLD,
 IT IS UNCOVERED. — Thomas S.
